family Treatment Court

A program for families involved with the Department of Children, Youth and Families (DCYF). The program works with parents wanting to reunify with their children when drugs and/or alcohol was a primary reason for DCYF getting involved.

FTC has given me my children back. I have support that I've never had in my life due to the awesome team of FTC. - Felicia

FTC has helped me find myself. They provide a lot of help and they truly care. I feel the weekly check-in is helpful to hear feedback. -Esther

FTC has kept me accountable so I can be the clean and sober parent my kids need. -

How FTC can help your family:

- Immediate access to services and enhanced resources
- Immediate feedback on your progress with incentives to help with motivation
- Weekly discussions on support you are needing to overcome any safety risks and the barriers to having your children placed back home
- Increased communication with your social worker, your attorney and the court
- Recovery Coach and Mentors to help you each step of the way who can work "after hours" for families
