Rockridge Park- Bend, OR

Inclusive Parks

Harper's Playground- Mission

Harper's Playground believes everybody deserves to play. Play is vital to being human. Play is so important, the United Nations High Commission for Human Rights declares it "a right of every child."

https://www.harpersplayground.org/mission/#the-problems

Thunder Junction- All Abilities Park

https://www.sgcity.org/parkstrailsandcemetery/cityparks/thunderjunctionpark

Things to keep in mind...

Play areas should be designed to challenge children of different ages and abilities. At an inclusive playground, kids can learn to take risks together; none of them are left on the sidelines wishing they could participate.

Also remember that not all disabilities are physical. Many children with autism spectrum or sensory integration disorders find contemporary playground design too overwhelming, noisy, close etc.

Seattle Children's Playgarden

https://www.childrensplaygarden.org/